Seasonal Massage Therapist

Crescent Spur Heli-Skiing | Robson Valley, British Columbia
Season: Late December 2026 to mid-April 2027

Spend your winter in the BC mountains

Join us at Crescent Spur for a winter of mountain lodge life, rewarding work and lasting connections. We are looking for a skilled massage therapist who enjoys caring for active guests and contributing to a small, friendly team.

Owner-operated since 1992, Crescent Spur welcomes up to 20 heli-skiing guests each week. Many return year after year, creating a welcoming atmosphere and established demand for massage after days in the mountains.

The role

This position combines massage treatments with morning stretch classes and lodge support. Your day generally starts with a 30-minute guest stretch class at 6:45 a.m., followed by breakfast service, light cleaning and laundry. There is a midday break, with treatments focused in the afternoon and evening after guests return from skiing, including some appointments after dinner.

The regular schedule is generally six days on and one day off each week. Hours vary with guest schedules and operational needs.

Responsibilities

- Provide sports and deep tissue massage, with approximately four to six treatments typically scheduled in the afternoons and evenings.
- Lead a 30-minute morning stretch class suited to guests preparing for a day of skiing.
- Assist with breakfast service and clearing, light cleaning, massage linens and general lodge laundry.
- Support the lodge team with other reasonable assigned duties.

What we are looking for

- Registered Massage Therapist preferred. We will also consider applicants who have completed at least 1,000 hours of massage therapy training.
- Experience with sports or deep tissue massage is an asset.
- Comfortable living and working in a semi-remote lodge environment and willing to contribute to lodge duties beyond massage treatments when needed.

Compensation and benefits

- Excellent earning potential through a combination of massage commissions, lodge wages and pooled gratuities.
- Competitive commission paid for each massage treatment provided.
- $60 per scheduled working day for assigned lodge duties, in addition to massage commissions.
- Pooled lodge gratuities, paid at the end of the season according to the number of days worked. Gratuities vary by season and are not guaranteed.
- 4% vacation pay, paid each pay period.
- Private staff accommodation and meals provided throughout the operating season, with no deductions from wages for room and board.

This position has historically offered very strong earning potential. With a full lodge of active heli-ski guests most weeks, there is an established demand for massage throughout the season. In addition to the daily lodge wage, the Massage Therapist earns commission on every treatment and participates in the lodge gratuity pool, with most treatment days consisting of multiple bookings.
Beyond the compensation, the position offers a unique opportunity to spend the winter living and working in the BC mountains as part of a small, close-knit lodge team.
